

Soft Kit

Unloading, storing and distributing supplies such as food, drink and firewood from ships or wagons.

Cleaning, polishing and mending armour and equipment and mending boots.

Fetching water, boiling it and filling water jugs.

Cavalry soldier: looking after horse, grooming etc (although the groom, usually a slave would have to do much of that); exercising the off-duty horses to keep them fit.

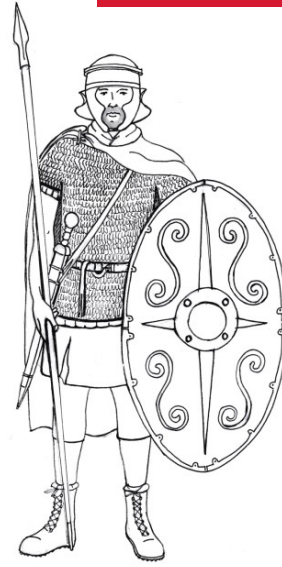

Cleaning and maintaining the bath-house.

Attending religious ceremonies.

Grinding flour, collecting rations, cooking meals.

Cleaning and maintaining the fort and barracks. Re-painting buildings, doing minor repairs to buildings and roads, cleaning out drains and latrines.

Cleaning barrack room, sweeping, washing, dusting (every couple of years refill mattresses with new hay or straw), empty chamber pots etc

Full armour

Guard duty at one of the gates to make sure whoever comes in the fort has permission to do so.

Guarding the cattle and horses grazing in fields outside the fort.

Guard duty at the shrine of the standards in the headquarters building.

Night-watch duty: keeping an eye out for anyone creeping up on the fort.

Going on patrol outside the fort.